Asbury Epworth League.

A literary treat was afforded the Epworth leaguers of Asbury church Monday evening at 8:15 o'clock. The exercises were in charge of Rev. H. Beckham, pastor of the church, and were opened with a song and praise service. The music was under the skilful direction of Mrs. Lowry. Dr. William Willis read a paper, carefully prepared by a young lady of the league, entitled "Memories of the Last Literary Meeting." Miss Belle Pettis then read a synopsis of a beautiful story, hased upon the last Epworth League convention, held in Tennessee, which led to the conversion of a young Jew boy. Dr. Beckham then gave a delightful blackboard talk, showing the forms and meaning of the Hebrew alphabet. By special request, Miss Nannie Pegram gave a recitation, and was tendered a rising vote of thanks by the society. The Toronto meeting was discussed thoroughly. Much enthusiasm is felt over the trip, every loyal leaguer desiring to go. Mr. Marvin Taylor, of Trinity, was present.

Presented with a Handsome Jewel.

At the gtated communication of Richmond Chapter, No. 3, Royal Arch Masons, last night, the companions presented Retiring Past High Priest Beverley C. Lewis with a very handsome past high priest's jewel. Most Excellent Jacob Lewit made the presentation speech, and Past High Priest Lewis responded in a happy vein, expressing his gratitude for the honor bestowed upon him, and for the beautiful gift besides. After the meeting a bountiful supper was enjoyed. It was expected that Grand High Priest J. T. Steffner, of Wytheville, would be in attendance last night, but he was unable to get here.

WASHINGTON, July 1.-The Finance ommittee suffered several unexpected reverses during the progress of the tariff bill to-day, being defeated on three im-29 to 23. The duty on white pine lumber was reduced from $2 to $1 per 1,000, by vote of 22 to 21. The amendment on casioned the greatest surprise, and led to a general breaking up of party lines on both sides of the chamber. During the early stages of the debate, the duty on lumber, including pine, was To-day, Mr. Teller returned to the contest, and moved to place white pine lumber on the free list. The amendment was defeated by the close vote of 32 to 33-four Republicans-Messrs. Mr. Mantle (Silver Republican) ed to reduce the rate on white pine from $2 to $1, and this was carried by a from $2 to $1, and this was majority of one. Two Republicans— Messrs, Baker and Carter—voted with the Democrats in the affirmative, and three Democrats—Messrs, Bacon, McEnery, and Martin-with the Republicans, in the ception of the reciprocity section, and some comparatively minor paragraphs. Much progress was made to-day in clearing up detached paragraphs heretofore passed over. Only three of these-coaltar, potash, and tea-remain, so that these items, the reciprocity section, and the brief internal revenue and adm trative provisions, are all that is left of the bill to be disposed of before the final

Mr. Allen, of Nebraska, proposed a further amendment, allowing the draw-back on coal, not only to vessels, but to "inhabitants of the United States." Does that mean free coal?" asked Mr.

Clark, of Wyoming.
"Yes, free coal," answered Mr. Allen, who argued that the people were as much entitled to the benefits of free coal as were the owners of vessels.

Mr. Platt, of Connecticut, stated that this was not a question of free coal, but simply one as to giving American vessels the same advantages that were en-joyed by foreign vessels. While there was quite a sentiment for free coal in his part of the country, yet he had always believed the coal industry of the of Congress.

"But should not the people receive the care of Congress?" asked Mr. Allen. Mr. Platt answered that by fair protection to American industry no consumer suf CONDITION OF MINERS.

Mr. Allen and Mr. Clark were involved a sharp personal colloquy concerning the former's reference to pauper labor in the coal-mines. Mr. Clark indignantly resented the implied insult to the coalminers, and Mr. Allen disclaimed any such purpose.

The discussion branched off to the condition of the miners in Wyoming, Washington, Pennsylvania, and elsewhere. Mr. Allen asserted that coal miners were the lowest paid class of labor in the country. and that the contract labor laws were defied by the importation of pauper miners from abroad.

After further debate Mr. Allen's amendment was rejected, and the committee amendment, allowing drawbacks to American vessels, was agreed to without divi-tice of a comprehensive amendment, pro-viding for the assignment of three general appraisers to make an investigation of all questions re-lating to the tariff, the condition of industries which are affected by the tariff, the condition of industries abroad which compete with American industries, and the difference in labor cost here and abroad; also, to make an analysis of the schedules of this tariff bill, with a view to correcting any inequalities that may exist. The result of the inquiry is to be reported to the Secretary of the Treasury and to Congress.

The Y. M. C. A. Moonlight.

The moonlight to be given by the Young Men's Christian Association on the steamer Pecahonias next Thursday night is the centre of interest in association circles now. It will be a great event. Last night the committee malled the individual announcements to every member, giving details of the event, and members can secure their tickets at the building on or after to-day. All members who expect to go are requested to get their tickets before Tuesday next, in order that the committee may know just how many non-members can be accommodated. While the capacity of the steamer is 2,200, and the license allows them to carry 1,250, the committee will only issue a sufficient number of tickets to make the crowd comfortable and the occasion a most pleasant one. A good musical programme is being arranged, and refreshments will be obtainable. Persons not members of the association can secure tickets at the building until the limit is reached. considered at length.

Mr. Pettus, of Alabama, had previously given notice of the amendment, as follows: "Bagging for cotton, gunny cloth, and all similar material, suitable for covering cotton, composed wholly or in part of hemp, flax, jute, or jute butts." Mr. Pettus spoke in support of the amendment, saying he ared to avoid a party contest, and asked the support of Republican votes. Mr. White moved to extend the amendment to burlaps, and grain bags made of burlaps. The debate was protracted, and in the nain techniwas protracted, and in the main technical, Mr. Mantle, of Montana, and Mr. White supporting the amendment, and Mr. Perkins, of California, opposing it. As finally amended, the proposed paragraph is as follows: "Bagging for cotton, gueny cloth, and similar fabrics, suitable for covering cotton, composed of single yarns, made of jute, jute butts, or hemp, plain woven fabrics, begs and sacks, of single jute, or hemp yarns, by whatever name known, and burlaps, and bags for grain made of burlaps."

In this form the amendment was agreed to—30 to 25. The affirmative vote was—Democratic; Messrs, Allen, Cannon, Heitfield, Kyle, Mantle, and Teller also voting yea. The negative vote was Republican Dr. McGuire on Stonewall Jackson.

As has been already announced, Dr. Hunter McGuire, the medical director of Jackson's Corps during the war, and the intimate friend of the great soldier, will deliver his address on Stonewall Jackson before Lee Camp at their hall at $30 o'clock to-night. The public, and especially Lee ladies, are invited to attend.

Dr. McGuire is eminently fitted for the task of delineating the character of General Jackson, and the preparation of this address bas been a real "labor of love" or his part, as his tribute of admiration to the character and genius of his dead friend.

Those who have heard this address read field. Kyle, Mantle, and Teller also voting yea. The negative vote was Republican throughout, with the exception of Mr. Jones, of Nevada.

Mr. Bacon's amendment placing cotton ties on the free list was then considered. After a brief explanation by Mr. Pacon, the vote was taken, and the amendment was agreed to. The vote in detail was substantially the same as the previous vote.

FLOOR MATTING.

An amendment placing floor matting, including Chinese matting, on the free list, was agreed to without division, these mattings having been taken from the dutlable list by a close vote, some weeks reported. Cocoanut-oil was taken from the free list and placed on the dutiable list at 31-2 cents a pound. reported.

Paragraph 6221-2, placing on the free list regalla and gems for use by societies, was agreed to, with slight modifications. The paragraph relating to the personal effects of persons arriving in the United States was modified so that effects taken abroad may be brought back without limit, while effects acquired abroad and admissible free are to be limited to $100. The iron-ore paragraph was further changed, making the reference to man-ganese-ore, as follows: "Manganese-ore, in dry state, $1 per ton."

WHITE PINE. Mr. Teller moved an amendment in-cluding in the free list "rough lumber anufactured of white pine.' The Senator criticised the course of the committee in placing white pine on the dutiable list, thus encouraging the de-struction of pine, when it was known that the supply would not last eight years. Mr. Teller said he was for protection, but he would not carry it to ex-tremes, compelling every man building a home or using a stick of pine to pay tribute to the few owners of pine. This was not Republican doctrine, which was opposed to the advance of prices on the necessaries of life.

Mr. Teller declared that the duty on sine was one of the many absolutely in-defensible features of this bill.

This reopened the discussion on the duty on white pine, which was vigorously contested in the early stages of the bill, resulting at that time in retaining pine on the dutiable list at $2 per 1,000 feet.

Senators Gray and Mantle supported Mr. Teller's motion. Mr. Spooner opposed the motion, on the ground that the duty was a fair measure of protection to an extensive industry in three border States. This was not a roposition to place all kinds of lumberon the free list, but merely to discriminate against the white pine of three amendment was defeated.

The amendment was defeated.

Mr. Mantle moved to reduce the duty on white pine from $2 to $1 per 1,000 feet. He read from the statement of a feet. He read from the statement of a stateme lumberman that a $2 rate would be pro hibitory, and he appealed to Democratic senators to vote unitedly and thus over-

Mr. Settle (Democrat), of Kentucky, after the Journal had been read in the truth of the Journal of last Monday' truth of the Journal of last Monday's proceedings, by offering an amendment to correct the Journal, so as to make it show that "the Speaker, in pursuance of the rule heretofore adopted, declared the House adjourned until Thursday."

Upon this amendment he got the floor, and proceeded with an extended speech on the general question of the power of the House to adjourn over three days at a time.

on the general question of the power of the House to adjourn over three days at a time.

He averred that he offered the amendment in no technical spirit, but that the Journal might more nearly relate the truth. He contended that Democrats and Republicans might vote for it. "You can vote for it." said he, addressing the Republican side, "without reference to your political affiliations, or any condition of servitude, voluntary or involuntary, previous or now existing." (Laughter.)

When Mr. Settle declared that his side had ordered this rule, Mr. Simpson (Populist), of Kansas, observed, sarcastically, that one gentleman on his side (Mr. Balley, of Texas) had not opposed it. "I suggest that the gentleman from Kansas inform himself of the facts," ejaculated Mr. Balley, with some temper.

Speaker Reed rapped the House to order, and remarked, blandly, with a twinkle in his eye, "Gentlemen must not interrupt each other, or make unreasonable requests of each other."

Mr. Settle, under the rules, had an hour in which to argue his motion. He discussed the power of the House to adjourn without a quorum for more than one day, and declared that its doing so was a direct violation of the letter of the Constitution.

ARRAIGNMENT OF REPUBLICANS.

He drifted into a general arraignment of the Republicans, for not taking action on the bankruptcy bill and the Cuban belligerency resolution.

"You have acted in utter deflance of public sentiment," he cried. "You asked for time. You predicted great things. Calhoun went to Cuba; Calhoun returned from Cuba; Calhoun has been forgotten, and so has Cuba. There is indifference as to whether a civil government or a state of war exists in Cuba."

Several times points of order were made that Mr. Settle's remarks were irrelevant to the amendment—points which were sustained by the Speaker. When Mr. Settle referred to the municipal elections at "Chicago, Cincinnati, Columbus, and Canton" as an indication of the public disapproval of the House's inaction and a forerunner of that November day in 1909 which would prove the Armageddon and the Waterloo of the Republican party, the Speaker again rapped him to order, and Mr. Dingley and Mr. Bailey crossed swords over the question as to whether Mr. Settle's remarks were in order. Mr. Dingley contended that the Kentuckian's remarks were wide of the motion, and Mr. Bailey that it was always proper to speak of public opinion. "We have always had respect for public opinion," said the latter, "and we think it proper to lay it before you for your instruction and guidance." (Democratic applause.) "But what is the connection between Armageddon and a motion to amend the Journal?" drelly asked Speaker Reed, whereat the Republicans laughed.

SUPPORT OF BRYAN.

SUPPORT OF BRYAN.

In concluding, Mr. Settle roused Democratic enthusiasm by asserting that his side proposed to hold up the hands of "the lion-hearted Democrat of Nebraska until his banner was planted on the topmost heights of victory."

The minority demanded the yeas and nays on Mr. Settle's motion, and the roli was called. The amendment was rejected-96 to 10

The Journal was approved, after which the Speaker laid before the House the credentials of Edwin C. Burieigh, recently elected to succeed the late Representative S. L. Milliken, of Malne.

Mr. Burieigh was escorted to the bar of the House, where the oath was administered. Mr. Knowles (Populist), of South Dakota, then rose to a question of personal privilege, and sent to the Clerk's desk and had read an Associated Press dispatch, dated at Lewiston, Me. in which Professor L. C. Bateman charged, on the alleged authority of the Mr. Knowles, that the "Middle-of-the-Road" Populists had accepted $1,500 from the proceeds of Mr. Bryan's book, with the understanding that nothing should be done to prevent fusion in 1900. Mr. Knowles denounced Mr. Bateman's statement as a viilful faisehood, without a shadow of foundation. Mr. Dingley objected to the airing of private grievances in the House. He said the gentleman might "hire a ball, if he desired to make a personal explanation."

Mr. Knowles insisted, however, that he had a right to denounce a statement that was "false as ——," and the Speaker allowed him to proceed. Mr. Knowles read letters in vindication of himself.

The message of the President, recommending an appropriation of 1800,000 for rebuilding the immigration station at Ellis Island, was laid before the House, A bill of local importance was passed, and at 1:30 P. None of the Demoeratic members had anything to say on any subject except adjournment, and upon that all agree that Congress will tainly by the 1st of August. Representative W. A. Mr. Otey, who is slightly indisposed, says he may have to go home to-morrow, but that Congress will adjourn by the 19th of the present month. Nearly all of the Senate amendments will be rejected by the House, and the bill will then be sent to the conferrees When their report comes back to the House the bill will be debated, and the Democrats will probably wish to make speeches to go into the Record, chiefly for home use. Mr. Reed will hardly allow any lengthy orations to be made. Not more than two days of five-minute speeches will be permitted, and It is predicted that the bill, as it comes from conference, will be practically the Senate bill, and that the Speaker will rush it through the House.

TARIFF BILL OUTLOOK. How Measure Will Progress After

It Leaves the Senate. WASHINGTON, July 1.-When tariff bill reaches the House, after it has passed the Senate, it is not probable that there will be any attempt to oppose the motion which will be made, either directly by Chairman Dingley or by the operation of a special order, to disagree to the Senate amendments and send the bill to conference. The Republican not think there is any necessity for de bate until the bill is reported back by the conferrees, and the Democrats are in-

Commenting on the probability of the selection of Archbishop Keane as the successor of the late Archbishop Janssens at New Orleans, the Daily States, of that selection of Archbishop Reane as the successor of the late Archbishop Janssens at New Orleans, the Daily States, of that city, says:

"Bishop Keane has been to New Orleans on several occasions. Some years ago he delivered here one of the most beautiful lectures that have ever been given to the platform. During the first winter school he delivered a number of lectures, and preached at St. Joseph's church during his stay. Hs is one of the most brilliant men in the Church, and he won a high reputation during his administration of the affairs of the Catholic University at Washington. Some months ago, at the request of the Pope, Bishop Keene resigned from the university and Father Conaty was put in his place. His resignation created something of a scheaution at the time, and an affort was made to prove that Keene had been forced out of the university by Cardinal Satolli and a certain element in America. The Pope at the time offered to make Bishop Keene and was appointed several exalted positions. During his stay in Rome it is understood the Holy Father has come deeply attached to him, and his formed a high opinion of his great ability Under the circumstances, it is probable that Leo would take great pleasure is naming Keene as the Successor of the lamented Jamssens. He would honor this great see in doing so."
